Come hear P.T. Wright from the U.S. Department of Homeland Security talk about the new technologies being deployed at the border to improve security while facilitating legitimate travel and trade. Wright will also review the upcoming changes to documentation requirements and provide an update on the status of the Western Hemisphere Travel Initiative.

The United States government recognizes the importance of facilitating legitimate cross-border travel and trade at all ports of entry. Local businesses, community organizations and representatives from local governments that rely on the smooth flow of trade and travellers between Canada and the U.S. will benefit in learning more about these programs.
